Founder
Campbell Transport LLC

Tavares Campbell is the founder of Campbell Transport LLC, a petroleum products transportation company located in Bolingbrook, Illinois. Campbell Transport delivers a variety of motor fuel products to its customers throughout Chicagoland area and the Midwest.

As an independent contractor, Tavares has been growing his business for more than a decade by providing reliable service for major oil companies, fuel distributors and gasoline retail franchisees. Among his customers is Sasafrasnet, LLC the country's only African American wholesale distributor of BP and Exxon/Mobil fuel products.

To ensure his own success, Campbell dedicated his time and efforts to his company, first taking the time to learn the industry and how it operates. He then began his career by working as an owner-operator, hauling fuel for some of the country's largest fuel transportation companies. After doing this for four years he was hired to be a company driver for two more years.

His experiences led him to start his own company with hopes of being able to someday own a fleet of trucks with his name on them and create jobs in the petroleum fuel products transportation industry. Tavares is also a husband and a father of four children who has a passion for helping others and being a generous giver. "God puts us in a position to have more, so we can give more."
